“ To all who cared and loved Chris, no one knows the true intent of a man's heart but God. He always gave his brother Emory and I a word of correction when we were doing the wrong thing, but he would encourage us to do what was right. I pray we always see the good in each other. Rest in peace Chris. John 8:7. He who is without sin among you, let him cast the stone first... The Lord bless and keep you. Rev. Kenneth and Yolanda Sudduth.

“ What I will remember most about my brother is how he protected, taught, and mentor me as a young kid and throughout my teenage years. I will never forget how he took me to baseball games, and how I use to sabotage his dates when he had company at the house. Yes, I was a blocker. As, I got older and would come visit in Ohio he would sit on John's patio until I woke up then we would play music, sing, laugh, and enjoy the company of family until I left back for Chicago. I am going to miss his presence and the ongoing fun feud between him and the other big brother (John) as to who was the oldest. And of course who do you think won that battle. John but we knew who it really was! Chris
