“ I was a tool and die maker for Ron and loved working for him he was a great teacher and taught me a lot about tooling and life. Ron could read a book and learn anything he needed. his ability to retain knowledge was amazing. His saying was always does that make sense or do u know what I mean and I always did.. He pulled a Camaro in the shop one day and ripped the motor out of it and decided to rebuild the motor. H e asked me if I knew how to CC heads and I said what. He found a book about the motor and the next day I came to work and the bench looked like a laboratory he learned from the book how to cc heads and bore and stroke the cylinder heads . It blew my friggin mind that u could read a book and rebuild engine as good as anybody. He put the motor back in the car and it fired on the first turn and sounded like a friggen dragster it loped and ran amazing. Ron was a born tool and die maker but should have and was a teacher. thank u ron for everythink and u will be sorely missed. ur employee steve lewis

“ I knew him very well. He was on the Simpson football team, coached by Virgil Whims and undefeated, and I practiced against him every day. I had a great deal of respect for him that was well earned each day. He was very tuff and never backed down, believe me. I will always think very highly of him as a result.
